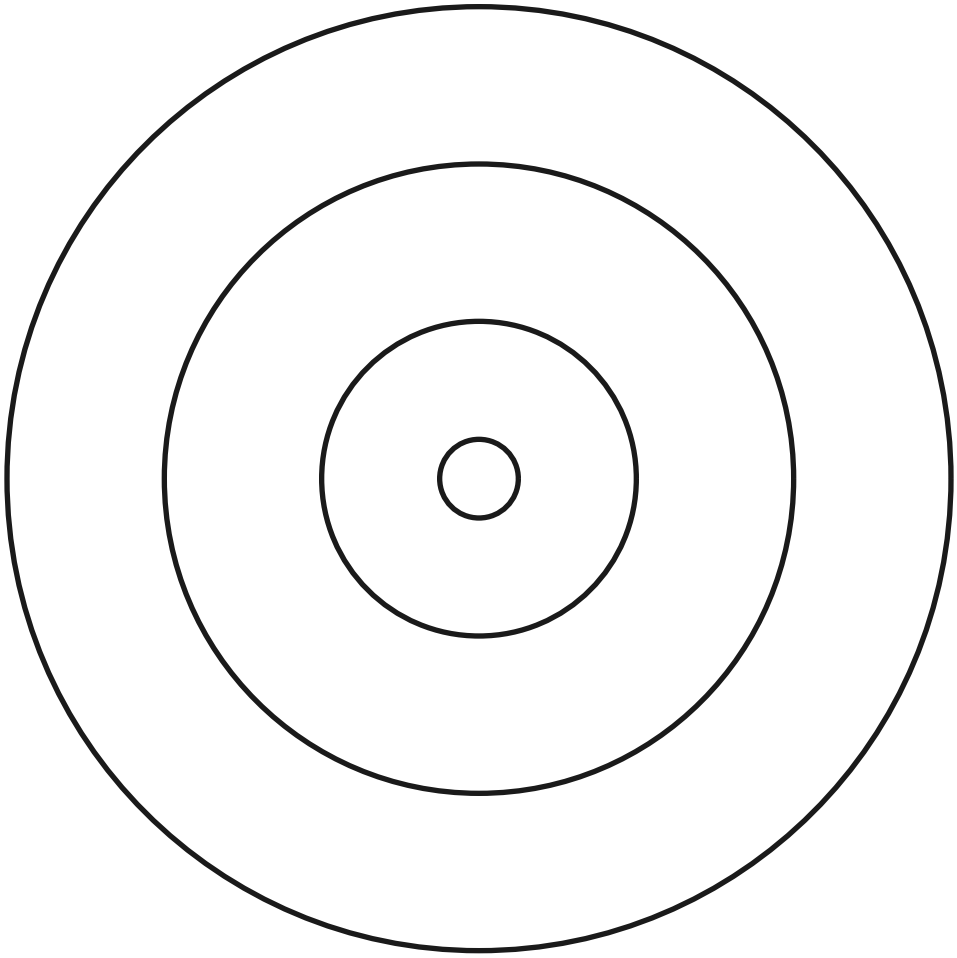
Color the house

A simple printable for parents, teachers and coaches to use with a group.



An illustrated curling house, not a measuring tool.

Facilitator notes

Invite participants to color the rings and point to the button in the center.

Ask: Does a ring color change the score? No. Each scoring stone is one point.

Use large paper counters to discuss which stone is closest to the center.

Keep counters on the tabletop; adapt the activity to your group.

Free to print and share for noncommercial education. Keep the HouseCall credits.
